

'HE'S A BIGAMIST!' CHARGES NORTH TORRANCE WIFE NO. 1

A bigamy complaint was filed this week by a young Torrance woman who found her husband remarried after she returned from a three-week trip to Dayton, Ohio, to see her parents.

When Mrs. Cornelia Groh, 30, came back from her trip East, she discovered that her husband, C. Gerald Groh, 30, of 16732 Crenshaw blvd., had married a Hawaiian girl, Alberta Veronica Sallee, about 25 years old.

Files Complaint

Wife No. 1 sought out Det. Sgt. Percy Bennett of the Torrance Police Department, filing a bigamy complaint against her husband yesterday. Court learning of the matter has been set for next week.

While Mrs. Cornelia Groh maintained she went back East simply for a visit, hubby claims that his wife left on her own accord and that she wanted a divorce.

Thinking that she had probably obtained a divorce, Groh told Sgt. Bennett, he up and remarried, only to be faced with a rather embarrassing situation as wife No. 1 dropped in on him eight days after he said, "I Do's" with Miss Sallee.

Married 4 Years

Groh and his first wife have been married four years. They came to Torrance in January of this year.

Groh, a machinist at Torrance Douglas aircraft plant, met his second wife at the firm where they are both employed.

Mrs. Groh No. 2 is anxious to keep her troubled hubby and hopes that the matter can be straightened out. But Mrs. Groh No. 1 thinks she has some prior claims.

The matter is now up to the judge.

YOUNG MOTHER OF 4 SHOT THROUGH HEAD BY CRAZED HUSBAND

Terror stalked a Torrance home Monday morning when a father of four shot his wife through the head with a .22 rifle and then fought it out with sheriff's deputies after first shooting and stabbing himself.

In serious condition but holding his own at the Los Angeles County Hospital jail ward is Fermin B. Pagaling, 48, of 451 1/2 East 213th street, according to the attending physician.

"Fantastic"

Despite the fact that Pagaling allowed his wife, Frances, 22, to lie wounded for three hours before help was summoned, she was in "excellent" condition at Harbor General hospital Tuesday. "There are no abnormal findings... just two little holes where the bullet passed. It's fantastic!" the attending physician stated.

Pagaling, who returned from San Diego around 5 a.m. Monday, apparently shot his wife while she and the children were still asleep.

He then sat and waited for her to die, deputies said.

"Mama Wants To Sleep"

At around 8 in the morning he took the children outside telling them, "Come on, kids, Mama wants to sleep." The children are Bobby, 4 months, Ginger, 1, Marcellina, 3, and Fermin 4.

While the berserk man took the children to the home of a relative a block away, Mrs. Pagaling stumbled next door, telling Mrs. Anna Bertschinger, "Call the officers. He shot me."

As Deputy H. E. Springett arrived, he saw Pagaling getting into his car. Pagaling fired a series of bullets which struck the Bertschinger home. Springer fired back, driving Pagaling, who returned from

Good-Bye L.A.! Smog-Stricken Family Moves To Torrance

Can't Stand It Any Longer In L.A.

"This is it! We've had it!" Fran and Roger Cade of Los Angeles exclaimed this week as they made plans to move to Torrance to escape the smog which they claim has become unbearable.

"Our kids are going around all day rubbing their eyes and my wife has been suffering terribly from the smog," Cade said.

The Cades have already bought a home at 3315 W. 180th st. and will move in the first week in November after having lived in Los Angeles five years.

The smog, however, was never as bad as it was in recent weeks, Cade said.

The Cades, who live at 185 S. Oxford, have two children, Johnnie, 4, and "P.J.," 2.

Cade, an insurance salesman, had some ideas in regard to present attempts to cope with the smog menace.

"Some Solution"

"I'm not a smog expert," he said, "but I think it would help if the city were to crack down on cars—the real 'smokers' that is. Getting rid of incinerators would also be better all around. It would be a step in the direction of Progress. As far as Knight's request was concerned to shut down the refineries, that, I think, was politically motivated in part. But every angle should be explored. It will take time, but I'm sure we can arrive at some solution."

The whole family feels quite happy about moving to Torrance. Recent studies showed that of all areas in the vicinity

Not able to stand the unbearable smog conditions in Los Angeles any longer, Mr. and Mrs.

Mother Saves Polio Victim From Fire

A 10-year-old polio victim was saved this week by her mother when their home caught on fire as a result of a little boy playing with matches.

Mrs. D. R. Sturgess of 3207 W. 227th st. told investigators Friday that she was watering the lawn when she suddenly smelled smoke.

Though the children were supposed to be taking a nap, Mrs. Sturgess suspected trouble and raced into the house.

Four-year-old Butch came running out of the bedroom where flames were eating away at the bedding.

Mrs. Sturgess yelled for Butch and Danette, his sister, to go outside.

Then the mother ran into Jo

All you've got to do is tell 'em the facts... clearly, simply. That's what Mrs. D. Augiera of 1751 West 242nd place Lomita did when she placed the following ad in the Torrance Press classified section:

Mortuary -- Here We Go Again!

Never-say-die foes of the proposed Halverson mortuary in Torrance reopened the whole issue once more despite the fact that it was seemingly settled by nothing less than a Superior Court ruling recently.

Not satisfied with Judge Arnold Praeger's decision favoring a variance granted by the City Council, Earl P. Miller, through his attorney Jack Stearns, announced this week that he will appeal the judge's decision within 30 days "on the basis that (Praeger) made errors in law in rendering his opinion."

Kicked Around

Foes of the mortuary to be located opposite Torrance's only other mortuary at the corner of Cravens and Eogracia had been instrumental in having the mortuary matter held up for months through all sorts of legal kinks before the City Council finally approved the variance 4 to 1.

Councilman Albert Isen voted against the mortuary.

After the matter is appealed now it will be a matter of about

Boy, 3, Dies, 15 Hurt In Week-End Traffic Accidents

Numerous traffic accidents resulting in one death and at least fifteen injuries made this last week end one of the worst and grimmest that Torrance has had for some time, according to Chief Willard Haslam.

A three-year-old boy, Vernon Ray Johnson of Los Angeles, was killed early Sunday morning when he was flung from a car driven by his father, Edmund Johnson, 24. Johnson was not familiar with Hawthorne avenue near 190th street, according to police, and failed to negotiate the curve in the road. Johnson told police that the car continued over the dirt road and out into the field where it roared over a dirt embankment and overturned.

Mom of 2 Commits Suicide

Apparently despondent over a pending divorce, a mother of two children committed suicide by means of carbon monoxide sometime between Saturday night and Sunday morning, according to Lt. Gregory of the Lennox sheriffs.

In a suicide note addressed to her husband, John Richards of Hermosa, Mrs. Richards told him that she loved him and asked that he take care of their children, Mary Ellen, 11, and Jay, 7.

The divorce was to be final November 7.
